ACHIEVEMENTS

The Garrett Group

The Garrett Group Announces Establishment of New Cybersecurity Division

The Garrett Group (TGG), a Bellevue-based national security contractor, announces the establishment of a new Cybersecurity Division to provide tailored support options to assist clients in recognizing threats, assessing vulnerabilities, and devising risk-based cybersecurity solutions.

The benefits of doing business in the Information Age are undeniable, but it is obvious from even a casual review of headlines over the last few years that reliance on information technology comes with no small amount of risk. Cyberattacks cause billions of dollars in losses every year, and the growing threat isn't limited to Fortune 500 companies. Small and medium size businesses face the same risks and are likely to present a more vulnerable target unable to address the scope and complexity of their specific threats in the face of a small staff, limited resources, and "one-size-fits-all" security solutions. The goal of the TGG Cybersecurity Division is to assist small and medium size clients with assessing the myriad of threats, identifying actual risks, and developing practical risk management strategies.

Mr. Andrew Munger leads the Cybersecurity Division. Mr. Munger has 15 years of experience built on a unique and diverse background in cyber strategy, intelligence, information security, risk reduction, layered defense, and strategic analysis. As a member of the United State Air Force, and a top graduate of their Network Intelligence Academy, Mr. Munger specialized in intelligence, information operations, defeating technical threats and countering threats from foreign intelligence services. After leaving the military, he has applied his skills and acquired additional expertise in the private sector supporting multiple efforts to reduce risks to businesses, protect corporate brands, and enhance cybersecurity programs for Fortune 500 companies in the financial and professional services industries.

"Our goal," says Munger, "is to demystify cybersecurity, help organizations decipher the complexities, and arrive at sensible, effective cybersecurity solutions."

The Garrett Group is proud to sponsor The Great Plains Cyber Summit on February 5th at the Embassy Suites La Vista. Details can be found at <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/great-plains-cyber-summit-sponsored-by-the-garrett-group-tickets-40113201666>.
