FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Community Invited to Celebrate Grand Opening of Centris' New Headquarters and 15th Branch

OMAHA, Neb. – Centris Federal Credit Union is pleased to announce the opening of its new headquarters and 15th branch at Sterling Ridge. To celebrate, the community is invited to attend their Family Fun Day on Saturday, July 31 between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Food, games, prizes and more will be part of the celebration hosted at 13120 Pierce Street.

The four-story headquarters provides office space for 150 Centris employees and includes a full service branch, three drive thru lanes and a publically available community room. Holland Basham Architects designed the structure and MCL Construction managed the project implementation. Centris occupies three of the four floors.

Steve Swanstrom, Centris CEO and President, said that features of the new headquarters include 24 conference and training rooms, three outdoor patio spaces for employees, complete with a green roof-friendly mix of succulent plants. "The branch includes non-traditional teller pods for two tellers who can serve members who walk into the branch or are in their car in the drive-up lanes," he said. The branch also includes a kids area with Touch 2 Play and Playstation screens and equipment to keep school aged children busy while their parents meet with Centris staff.

"We have many open spaces with lots of natural light throughout the building designed for team collaboration," Swanstrom said. "Our community room is available to anyone to rent for free with a small damage deposit and is equipped with enhanced video conferencing and a kitchenette. We have already hosted groups during the day for business meetings and on the weekends for baby showers and retirement parties."

Swanstrom added that one of the many highlights of the building is the exterior light-up, interactive sculpture named "Belong" by artist Joe O'Connell and Creative Machines. The sphere shaped sculpture features over 150 unique silhouette cutouts of people who "belong" or are Centris members.
