Eligibility for this year's scholarship program required students to be high school seniors residing in Nebraska or Iowa and to have been primary account holders with Centris for at least one year before applying for the scholarship. The selection process was based on the students' responses to two essay questions focusing on financial health and the credit union philosophy of people helping people.

Dawn Gonzales, vice president of community relations at Centris, expressed pride in supporting these students' future endeavors, stating, "The financial health of our members is our priority with a focus on building a stronger community for the next generation of leaders. This scholarship program is a way for us to give back to those future leaders so they can pursue their dreams and enrich the communities they call home."

Centris will open applications for the 2025/2026 academic year scholarship program in the fall of 2025. Interested parents and students can find more information on the Centris Federal Credit Union website, www.centrisfcu.org.
